Edward Barber and Jay Osgerby founded the eponymous Barber & Osgerby design studio after meeting at the Royal College of Art in London. They have worked on a wide range of design projects including the 2012 London Olympic torch and a permanent gallery at the Science Museum. Their work is held in permanent collections around the world including the Victoria and Albert Museum, London.

Barber & Osgerby have chosen to celebrate 200 years of Royal Doulton by creating the 'Pipe Vase'. The pair have drawn inspiration from the shape of the salt-glazed stoneware pipes that were some of the most significant products to be manufactured in Royal Doulton's earliest days.

Nick Walker is one of the street art world's most talented and rising stars. He emerged from the Bristol graffiti scene in the early 1980's and since then has continually evolved his style using hand-cut stencils and freehand painting. Nick's alter ego, the bowler hatted vandal, is now recognised across the world. For the first time in Royal Doulton's history, the latest 3D scanning technology has been used to create a figurine. Nick Walker dressed as his alter-ego, the bowler hatted vandal, was scanned, 3D printed in resin, and then recreated in bone china.

ROYAL DOULTON

The Bunnykins story began in 1934 with the drawings of a young nun, Barbara Vernon. Her drawings were originally created for the amusement of young relatives and friends and would have remained private had it not been for one fortunate coincidence – Barbara’s father was Cuthbert Bailey, Manager of the Royal Doulton factory. Based on the innocent adventures of a family of eight little bunnies in the village of Little Twitching, Cuthbert saw the potential for his daughter’s drawings as a range of nurseryware. Eight decades later, Royal Doulton Bunnykins celebrates its 80th Anniversary in 2014 and still remains the world’s most popular range of children’s tableware.

Once you have met the Bunnykins family it is hard not to fall in love.

The characters remind us ever so slightly of our childhood or the childhood we wish for our children... The village of Little Twitching is a safe haven for all, where the children are free to explore a world filled with childhood delights and adventures. Each Bunnykins scene is filled with innocence, adventure, a light-hearted nature and a caring spirit.

Even the youngest of children can enjoy the iconic Bunnykins brand with this exciting nurseryware range featuring all the favourite Bunnykins characters. Celebrating its 80th Anniversary in 2014, the Bunnykins brand was designed by Barbara Vernon in 1934, based on the innocent adventures of a family of eight little bunnies in the village of Little Twitching, capturing childhood nostalgia of exploring a world filled with childhood delights and adventures.

GENERAL INFORMATION

CARING FOR CHINA

Using

- Pieces must not be dropped or struck against hard or sharp surfaces, or struck with hard or sharp objects.
- Pieces must not be subjected to extreme changes in temperature.
- Plates and serving dishes can be warmed before use in an oven at a temperature of no more than 100°C.
- Pieces must not be placed directly on a hot stove element or flame.
- Tableware with a gold or platinum trim must not be used in a microwave.
- Fine bone china should not be used for cooking purposes.
- Always warm a teapot or coffeepot first by filling it with hot tap water prior to pouring in boiling water. Avoid standing on cold surfaces such as stainless steel sinks.
- 'Casual' tableware pieces taken from a freezer or refrigerator must be allowed to return to room temperature before being placed in an oven.

Washing

- When washing by hand avoid the use of scouring pads or abrasive cleansers. Clean with a soft cloth.
- Most stains can be removed by soaking the item in warm water before washing. Very stubborn stains can be removed by soaking in a mild bleach solution for up to one hour.
- When leaving a teapot or coffee pot to dry, always stand the right way up.
- Metal marks, caused by minute deposits of metal from cutlery, can be removed with a silverware cleaner.
- All your china can be washed in a dishwasher at a maximum temperature of 65°C using a recommended dishwasher detergent.
- Recommended dishwasher detergents are Finish Powerball All in 1 and Cussons Morning Fresh Complete Tabs.

Storing

- When storing plates, try not to slide them over one another as this may cause scratches on the glaze. The surface of tableware is hard, however, the front of one plate can be scratched by the back of another so care should be taken when stacking and we recommend a paper napkin is placed between each plate.
- Cups should not be stacked when stored as this may weaken the handles.

CARING FOR CRYSTAL

- Care should be taken to avoid bumping glasses together when carrying or washing up.
- It is best to keep crystal out of the dishwasher or it may become cloudy. Wash by hand in a warm soapy water, avoiding the use of scouring pads or abrasive washing agents. Dry with a clean, soft cloth.
- No good glass should be immersed suddenly in very hot water or very cold water or have very hot or cold liquids poured into them.
- Store your crystal carefully, standing the right way up and not on the rims of the glasses.
- Red wine often causes stains on decanters. These can usually be removed by putting a spoonful of rice or tea leaves into the decanter with detergent and warm water and swilling around gently.
- Stoppers for Royal Doulton decanters are made specifically for each decanter. However, if the stopper becomes stuck, the neck of the decanter should be warmed by wrapping in a hot, wet cloth and then gently pulling on the stopper.

CARING FOR YOUR CUTLERY

Royal Doulton cutlery is made from 18/10 stainless steel, which is a high-quality, long-lasting metal. It is stain and acid resistant, but it is not totally stain-proof. The cutlery can be damaged if care is not taken to protect it from everyday corrosive elements. There are a few simple recommendations to keep your new cutlery looking its best:

- Clean and dry your cutlery as soon as possible after use. Do not leave it in water to soak, or let it stand in the dishwasher overnight after running a rinse programme. Mineral salts found in water can attack the metal and cause unsightly stains. In the humid atmosphere of a dishwasher, mineral salts can dry onto cutlery and will start the process that leads to corrosion.
- Do not leave food adhering to the cutlery for long periods prior to cleaning. Acids found in food residue are surprisingly corrosive, and if left in contact for long periods will attack the metal and cause pits and stains.
- Do not use any abrasive cleaners to remove food residue. Scouring with an abrasive pad will leave tiny scratches in the surface of the metal, which will reduce the shine. If the cutlery is washed promptly after use it is not necessary to use either abrasive detergents or pads to get your cutlery clean.
- Do not use your Royal Doulton cutlery as cooking implements. High direct heat can damage the surface of the metal leaving discoloured marks. Do not baste meat with eating cutlery, or rest pieces on a hot surface such as a hob.
- If washing in a dishwasher, we advise that you take the pieces out as soon as the cycle is finished and wipe them dry with a soft cloth before putting away. Dishwasher salt residue that is present in the humid atmosphere of a dishwasher can dry onto the pieces and cause watermarks and stains. Wiping the pieces when they are warm removes this fine corrosive residue.
- If minor watermarks and stains appear on your cutlery from time to time, you can polish them off with a proprietary stainless steel cleaner. Ensure you follow the manufacturer's instructions.
- NEVER use a silver cleaner to polish stainless steel cutlery. Silver polishes are not suitable for stainless steel, and will damage the metal.

SILVER PLATED PRODUCTS

- For general cleaning, silver plated items should be wiped gently with a clean soft cloth without detergent or chemicals. Solvents such as enamel remover or thinner, abrasives, harsh scourers, wire wool or hard scrubbing brushes should not be used on silver plated products at any time as they will damage the surface.
- Silver plated product may get discoloured over time, please polish with a silver cleaner or a polish specially formulated for cleaning silver.
- Silver items should not be stored in direct contact with leather or rubber, such as elastic bands.

CARING FOR WOOD

- Not suitable for freezer, microwave, dishwasher or oven use.
- Hand wash in warm soapy water, rinse and dry immediately with a soft clean cloth.
- Do not soak.
- Abrasive materials must not be used when cleaning. Remove stains by generously sprinkling regular table salt over the surface of the board, and rubbing it with a sliced lemon. Baking soda also works to remove odours, from strong scented foods. Rinse well with warm water (do not immerse) and allow to air dry.
- Do not allow moisture of any type to stand on the board for long periods of time. Don't let fresh, wet meats lay on the block longer than necessary.
- Always thoroughly clean your board after cutting any type of raw meats.
- Do not store wood in overly dry or damp environment.
- Do not place hot items on wood. Allow items to cool for a few minutes before placing directly on wood.

Assurance	Assurance is a two year warranty. See next page for details.
Bone china	Bone china is the strongest of all ceramic bodies. It contains a minimum of 30% bone, 25% clay and 25% stone. The unglazed pieces are fired at a high temperature and then the glazed pieces are fired at a lower temperature, making it soft to the touch.
Crystalline	Crystal glass is a glass product that contains a minimum of 10% metal oxides (may or may not be lead oxide), which give the product brilliance and strength.
Earthenware	Made from fired clay, earthenware is fired at lower temperatures than bone china.
Fine china	Fine china was developed by Royal Doulton in the 1950's as a more affordable alternative to bone china. It is made from china clay, stone and silica. It is fully vitrified which gives it strength.
Glass	Glass is made from silicates and alkali fused at a high temperature.
Gold	The gold used to trim and decorate china is 22 carat gold.
L/S	Large size.
Lead crystal	A glass product which contains 24% metal oxides, which gives the product brilliance and strength and makes the crystal easier to cut.
M/S	Medium size.
Made in	Indicates country of manufacture. Please note country of manufacture is subject to change. Country of manufacture will be noted on product, barcode sticker or packaging.
Packaging	Indicates how product is usually packaged.
Porcelain	Hard, translucent clayware usually consisting of 50% kaolin, 25% quartz, and 25% feldspar. Kaolin provides plasticity, durability, consistency, and adds whiteness. Quartz provides stability, and feldspar allows for vitrification of piece (formation of hard, glassy, surface).
RRP	Recommended Retail Price. This retail price includes GST and is only a guide. There is no obligation to adhere to this price.
S/S	Small size.
Stoneware	Hard clay fired at higher temperatures than earthenware. It is vitrified, hard and chip resistant.
Vitrification	During firing, silica is changed into glass and bonds all the ingredients together. When the level of glassy bonds increase, the porosity lowers, and china is considered fully vitrified.
18/10 Stainless Steel	Refers to the ratio of chromium (18%) and nickel (10%) added to carbon steel in the stainless steel manufacturing process.
